ANIMALS AND BIRDS.

New York:
McLOUGHLIN BRO'S, Publishers,
No. 30 BEEKMAN STREET.

How sweet and gentle an animal a sheep is! and this little lamb is a great pet with this young Miss.

Robert had a pretty poney, it had a flowing mane and a long tail, it was very tame and would eat out of his hand.

Here is little Julia feeding the fowls at the garden gate; the old hen breaks the food quite small and then calls the young chickens to eat it.

The pretty spotted cow is waiting at the gate for Jane to milk her, and Charles has got his little mug ready to have a drink of nice new milk.

The plumage of the peacock is very handsome, he is fond of strutting about in the sunshine and spreading his tail out like a fan.

The Newfoundland dog is very fond of swimming in the water, and has often saved little children from being drowned

How gracefully the swans swim in the water, they are milk white, but the young ones are grey, and are called cygnets.
